Generating an effective communications strategy in the political world requires having actionable media data at your fingertips to deliver the right messages to voters, constituents and the public at large. In today’s always-on news cycle, positive and negative news events can have a big impact on your political activities. Tracking fluctuating public sentiment on your candidates and platforms – and that of your opponents – will help you build a stronger share of voice and stay completely informed.

Key Challenges

- Monitoring the constant political chatter of broadcast news, social media and digital news outlets.
- Protecting public perception of candidates and policies from damaging news events.
- Knowing political fact from fiction to ensure your messages are seen as trustworthy in the public eye.
- Analyzing political trends typically entails a great deal of manual data gathering.
Zignal Enterprise transforms media intelligence into a strategic asset, synthesizing both traditional and digital media in realtime to help political organizations and campaigns keep pace with relevant news, uncover key insights and make more impactful decisions. You’ll know what your voters, opponents and news outlets are saying so you can develop and the most compelling messages to support your political objectives.

Relevant Use Cases

Generating Responses to Opponents
Keeping tabs on your opponent’s media activity is a top priority for political organizations. Get a granular look at not just what opponents are saying but how the public is responding to their messages to plan the right response and stay one step ahead.

Issues Management
In the political world, a crisis is inevitable. When crisis strikes, media intelligence helps you control the public message and protect reputation. Collect and analyze data in realtime to neutralize negative scenarios or crisis situations, craft a rapid and relevant response and be armed with the right data to put out fires before they can spread.

Key Influencers
Media influencers play an important role in defining how the public views your candidates, platforms and key messages. Media intelligence helps you identify key political influencers (both advocates and detractors), understand how public sentiment drives them, build the right relationships and generate the media coverage that will help guide your campaign.

Message Development
Cookie-cutter responses are all too common in the political world, and smart constituents prefer compelling messages that inspire. Dig deep into media data to discover what trends are driving voter interest and plan your messaging platforms and campaigns to maximize your reach.
Key Capabilities and Benefits

Support Your Strategy with Data
Track sentiment scores, total mentions, impressions, influencers, competitive mentions, keywords and much more. Measure your “share of voice” in the industry and understand how your messaging and content are resonating.

Generate Alerts
Targeted alerts let you know when to pay attention to developing stories and how your candidate or campaign is performing across different media.

Stay Ahead of Current Events
Keep everyone informed with hourly, daily or weekly briefings throughout the campaign or even during a crisis or other important events. Stay on top of newsworthy developments to keep your messages on target.

Gain Geographic Insights
Use geo-location and geo-enrichment demographics to map trends, gain location-based insights and track how your campaign or issue is performing for different regions and audiences.

Empower Your Political Team
Schedule monthly reports showing improvement in share of voice, generate “reading lists” that include relevant notes and recommendations, show mention/share increases for influencers and create “what-if” scenarios to investigate outcomes of different strategies.

Know the Key Influencers
Distinguish the good media influencers from the negative and stay fully engaged with them when coverage is most important. Identify key press influencers and continually fuel the best media coverage of your campaign possible.
